6. TECHNICALS REMARKS

All products made wholly and/or partially from materials of natural origin or natural finishes may have variations in colour, size and shape. Products totally or partially made of materials such as wood, cane, leather, marble, natural stones, metals, have innate characteristics like knots, change of colours, shape, texture or tonalities that certify their origin and cannot be considered as a defect but as characteristics of the product.

The customer accepts the variations and changes that may occur due to the nature of the material.

Considering variations in manufacturing, material availability and handmade products, we cannot guarantee that all materials supplied will be identical (including size, colour, grain and shade) to the details described or samples seen and any variation in this respect will not constitute a breach of your order.

Marbles or any other natural stone are slabs of rock and therefore may present small imperfections or differences that cannot be considered as a defect.

Metals normally have a spray varnished finish to protect the material, for this reason, scratches or colour changes are not considered defects, but characteristics of the product.

Leather is a natural product so colour differences will occur in the leather as well as marks in the leather, therefore they are not treated as a defect but as characteristics of the leather.
